

VAUGHN ALMEIDA

Identity systems and websites for brands that live on trust.

Senior Brand & Web Designer — healthcare and hospitality. I design the brand, design the site, and build it myself.

One person, strategy to shipped site.

I’m a brand & web designer working remotely with international clients across healthcare, hospitality, and growth businesses. My route in is unusual: I worked inside US healthcare revenue-cycle operations — claims, denials, payer follow-up — so clinics and billing firms skip the months of onboarding most designers need.

Since 2023 I’ve been the brand & web designer at Your SocialChef, an Australian agency, handling creative across 20+ concurrent accounts — which taught me the unglamorous senior skills: prioritising, systematising, and keeping twenty visual languages distinct under weekly deadlines.

Alongside client work I designed, built, and shipped a product line of my own — five niche website kits and four working apps, design system to production.

HOSPITALITY

BRAND SYSTEM · CAMPAIGN · MOTION

For a Melbourne Mexican kitchen and bar, through Your SocialChef: a one-page brand visual guide that settled two conflicting brand documents, a nine-tile Instagram grid, and the Sunday Birria Night campaign — three variations, three formats each, plus animated stories. Every image is the venue's own photography; nothing generated.

TACOS 'N' TEQUILAS · SUNDAY BIRRIA NIGHT · BRAND GUIDE, GRID & CAMPAIGN

01 THE MARK The calavera: cowboy hat, chilli stem, lime-slice eyes. From the client's own files.

RED ON AZTEC GOLD, PRIMARY

GOLD ON CHILLI PEPPER RED

PAPER ON INK, EVENING PIECES

RED ON PAPER, DAYLIGHT PIECES

HOW IT IS USED

- One per piece, small, in the same corner across a whole campaign. On the Birria Night set it is bottom-right, 64px wide at 1080, inside the 1:1 crop.
- In motion it is the last thing on screen, drawn or scaled in on the final beat, with the sonic mnemonic.
- Single colour only: red, gold, paper or ink. The colour follows the ground it sits on.
- Minimum width 56px at 1080, 12mm in print. Clear space equals the height of the hat brim on every side.

NEVER

- Never repeated as a pattern, never wallpaper, never a watermark tiled across a photograph.
- Never sitting on the food. Never resized to fill a gap. Never rotated, outlined or given a drop shadow.
- Never redrawn. The reference boards' version of the skull is not ours.
- Never two colours in one mark, and never on a busy part of the frame without the foot grade.

03B HEADLINE TREATMENT Adopted from the approved Tacos 'N' Tequilas creatives (Bottomless Brunch, $6 Taco Tuesday, Lunch Sorted, Burrito Wednesday). Gold on dark, red on gold. The shadow is hard, one colour, always down-right at 4.5 percent of the type size. Never tilted.

Kicker above the headline in Montserrat. Extra bold caps, letterpaced, paper (gold on ink). The approved set tilts its slabs a few degrees and puts one price in a red pill; the team brief says never rotated and never a badge, so here the slabs are square and the price is type. The approved posters were built on the client PDF's 'Generic' (demo cut) and Myriad Pro; this treatment is the same idea carried on Lilla One and Montserrat.

03C PRICE AND DETAILS The number is type, not a sticker. The venue rides a band.

Price in Lilla gold with the red offset, detail in Montserrat Extra bold caps. Day in paper, venue in gold.

The red version bands from the approved Bottomless Brunch poster. Full width, bottom of the frame, the one next stop and the mark sit inside it.

A high-energy Australian food brand across two venues: website design, social systems, promotional print, and photo grading. The brief was loud — the system keeps it loud without becoming noise.

Sundry Coffee Co.

A neighbourhood roaster built on the ritual of slow mornings. The mark is a rising sun with deliberately uneven rays — drawn to behave like a rubber stamp, not a vector file — with Fraunces for letterpress warmth and a palette pulled straight off the counter.
